WELCOME⁺

NASUWT is a democratic union and the only teachers' union to represent members in all parts of the UK. By solely representing teachers, NASUWT is also the most effective union representing your interests! That's because our leadership consists entirely of qualified and experienced teachers, elected by members.

We recognise that everyone working in education deserves specialist support for their respective roles. That's why NASUWT is committed to working with unions that possess the necessary expertise and skills to represent non-teaching staff, with their broad range of contracts and diverse responsibilities. This allows NASUWT to focus on the issues important to you – the teacher.

2. PROFESSIONAL

We also offer a range of Free professional development events throughout the year, timed to offer you the right kind of support, just when you need it.

We'll email you invitations to relevant events taking place during your training, so please make sure we have your up-to-date contact details!

FINAL TERM OF TRAINING

The job application and interview process can be daunting, so we'll arrange for an experienced recruitment professional, with a background in shortlisting and interviews, to share their experience with you. They'll also provide you with tips on how to get your ideal job!

BEFORE YOUR FIRST TERM

In the summer after you qualify, NASUWT will invite you to our free development days and webinars on: behaviour management; voice care and wellbeing; your induction rights; staying safe online.

WINTER OF FIRST ACADEMIC YEAR

At the end of your first term of teaching, NASUWT will invite you to a face-to-face development and training day. Sessions will be relevant to current issues in teaching but will include such topics as: dealing with trauma in pupils; effective time management; working assertively; your rights in your second year of teaching.

SUMMER OF FIRST ACADEMIC YEAR

In the summer term, the NASUWT development day will help you revisit your experiences of your first year of teaching and help prepare you for the year ahead.

NATIONAL CONSULTATION CONFERENCES

Once you've qualified and finished your initial teacher training, you'll be able to attend other consultation conferences aimed at supporting specific groups of members. These events: are Free to attend; provide a safe space; provide professional development opportunities; provide networking opportunities; contribute towards the NASUWT agenda.

YOUR RIGHTS

As a student undertaking initial teacher training, you have rights and entitlements that NASUWT can help you understand.

EXTENDING TRAINING

If you miss placements or significant parts of your training as a result of illness or unexpected life events, you may be able to negotiate an extension to your training year with your training provider. You may wish to involve your student union with any course issues.

ADDITIONAL IN-PLACEMENT SUPPORT

If you feel you are not receiving the support from your placement school to which you are entitled, contact NASUWT for advice. We can help you put your concerns in writing to ensure you have an audit trail.

ALLEGATIONS AND COMPLAINTS

We are here to support you through informal and formal investigations. Our dedicated advisors and representatives are here to provide confidential advice and support if you receive a complaint or allegation while on placement.

BEHAVIOUR

MANAGEMENT

You'll need to gain confidence, trust and respect from your pupils as an able practitioner, while getting the lowdown on the class/subject you are going to teach, including any issues or pupil needs.

It is also essential that you familiarise yourself with the behaviour policy and ensure your behaviour management plan matches it.

Maintain order and discipline in the classroom. Here's a few tips!

1. SET BOUNDARIES

All children and young people like order and good discipline, because it helps them understand what is required of them. From the outset, tell your class what you expect of them and what they can expect from you. Also spend some time setting out your personal behaviour policy.

2. USE POSITIVE LANGUAGE

Tell pupils what you want them to do, not what you don't want them to do! The message is: 'This is the way we behave in my classroom'. Plus – the use of the word 'thanks' after an instruction is much more powerful than the word 'please' before.

3. STRESS THAT WE ALL MAKE MISTAKES

Making mistakes is how we learn. So allow your pupils to get answers wrong, to learn together and to solve problems together. That way they won't be so embarrassed.

4. MAKE SANCTIONS FAIR AND REWARDS REGULAR

Children and young people recognise fairness and prefer to be treated as the individuals they are, rather than just a part of a difficult group! So keep your sanctions doable and commensurate with the rule that has been flouted. And reward appropriate behaviour regularly, with a smile, a stamp on their work and a word of encouragement.

5. BE ASSERTIVE

You need to be assertive in both your verbal language and your body language. Sarcastic teachers don't get the best out of their learners; kind but firm teachers do! So always speak clearly and confidently, without raising your voice.

6. DEAL WITH ANGER IN THE CLASSROOM

It's impossible to deal with an adult or child when they are in a temper. The best response is to remain calm and express your willingness to help the person once they are ready. Try to keep control of your own emotions whatever the other person might be feeling and, if possible, thank the rest of the group for getting on with their work. The class wants to see that you are in charge of the situation.

7. REMEMBER SENSE OF HUMOUR

Try to incorporate humour into your teaching and to recognise that of your pupils. It's hard for anyone to get angry or aggressive if they are laughing.

NASUWT has produced a range of guidance on managing classroom behaviour, which is applicable to all teachers throughout their careers.
